

Ceramic Pottery

Created & donated by Ervin Dixon

Hand-made pottery

Ceramic, paint, glaze

Value $150

Note – Picture at right is an example of Dixon’s pottery, not the piece being donated.*

Ervin Dixon is a highly skilled potter known for his beautiful usable pots, urns, and platters.

Trained at UNL and Kansas City Art Institute, he yearned to become a “country potter”, returning to Nebraska after teaching at the University of Miami, Florida.

Ervin finds great satisfaction in what has developed over the years in his converted 1895 church studio known as Cedar Creek Pottery. He relishes the challenge of creating forms that fit their purpose functionally and aesthetically, using sweeps of color and often the mark of his own hand.

Ervin Dixon
Cedar Creek Pottery
402.228.0138

